STREETS OF THE CITY ON THE RHONE PACKED WITH ENTHUSIASTIC MULTITUDES-TEL-UMPHAL PROGRESS TO THE CITY

HALL-A DAY OF FEASTING AND FESTIVITY.

Lyons, Oct. 25.-The Russian visitors arrived at the Gare de Perrache, the principal railway station of the town, at 10 o'clock this morning. An immense crowd had long been awaiting their coming, and when the train from Paris rolled into the station a shout went up that threatened to lift the roof. The station and the streets in the neighborhood were black with an enthusiastic multitude composed of all classes of people, all apparborhood were black with an enthusiastic multi-tude composed of all classes of people; all apparently wild to express the feeling of friendship en-tertained for the Russians. The Rue Dugas Monthel, from river to river, and the transversed streets were closed to vehicles early in the morning, the crowds being so dense that it would have been unsafe for carriages to attempt to pass through them. The windows of the prison across the street almost in the rear of the railway station were filled with the wardens and their friends, who had a fine view of the procession from the station.

GUNS BOOM AND BELLS CHIME. soon as the Russians arrived the great guns at Fort de St. Irence, on the hills to the east of the Saone, boomed out a welcome to them. The civic and military officers met and welcomed the visitors at the station. The Prefect delivered a speech of welcome, and the party then started in carriages for the Hotel de Ville. The route taken was through the Place de Parrache to and along the Rue Joseph, thence around the Place Beilecour to the Rue de l'Hotel de Ville, which leads to the City Hall. M. Rivaud, Prefect of the Rhone, and M. Gailleton, Mayor of the city, rode in the landau with Admiral Avelan. The drive from the station to the Place des Ter-reaux, immediately adjoining the Hotel de Ville, occupied a full hour. When the carriages were passing the Cathedral of Notre Dame de Four-viere the bells chimed the Russian authem, which the visitors acknowledged by doffing their hats.

The entire distance was lined with people. The progress of the party was slow, and the carriages rere often obliged to stop because of the crowds. Men and women pushed forward and shook hands with the Russians, and often the women would kiss them. Bouquets and loose flowers were showered upon them from the houses along the route, and the procession was in every respect a triumphal one. The reception accorded to the visitors equalled those given to them in Toulen and Paris. THE DAY'S ENTERTAINMENTS.

A reception given to the delegates sent from a hundred villages and towns in the neighborhood of Lyons occupied two hours. A banquet was given Prefecture, Admiral Avelan sat be-of the guests.

There were nearly 1,000,000 spectators in the streets to-day. A fete in which 200 societies to-day as given in honor of the visitors in the afternoon in the park, beneath the dome erected for the Exhibition of 1894. A dilaner was served this evening at the Hotel de Ville, tables being set for 600 persons, an aquatic fete was given later on the Saone. The illuminations were beautifut. During the dinner at the Hotel de Ville the usual toasts were drank to the Czar. President Carnot and others. In responding to one of the toasts Admiral Avelen, said:

toasts were drunk to the Czat, Freschent and others. In responding to one of the toasts Admiral Aveller said:

"Emotion deprives me of words. I propose the bealth of the whole of France in the Russian manner, with one, two, three million hurrains.

In the exuberance of their joy the Russian officers broke their glasses on the table and indulced in a wild outburst of cheering.

More than 250,000 visitors are in this city, having come from all parts of the surrounding country to take part in the fetes. The city is handsomely decorated, and a noteworthy fact is that the residents of the Italian quarter have taken a conspicuous part in adding to the flags and bunting that everywhere cover houses and span the streets. The Cours du Midi, the Place Perrache and the Place Bellecour are notable for their artistic decorations. Every boat plying upon the rivers Rhone and Saone, which traverse the city, is covered with flags, and almost every part of the city displays some decoration in honor of the Russians. The main streets of the town, he Cours Gambetta, the Avenue des Ponts du Midi, the Cours Lafayette and the Cours Morand, are masses of color, while Venetian masis are almost as plentiful as trees in a forest. trees in a forest.

RICH GIFTS FOR THE RUSSIANS.

An enormous number of gifts has been prepared for presentation to the Russians, either for them-selves or for the Czar and Czarina. Among the presents are twelve beautiful slik dresses for the Czarina, a large number of slik French and Rusczarina, a large number of silk French and Rus-cian flags, and 250 silk handkerchiefs. The latter are intended for the sailors of the Russian fiest. The day's festivides were marred by a fatal accident near the Hotel de Ville. As Admiral Avelan passed, the crowd surged forward to get a look at him. One of the women near by axes swept from her feet, and partly fell. The crowd, wild with excitement, still croshed forward, lam-ming the unfortunate woman with frightful force. It was at first thought she had fainted, but when the was removed from the crowd it was found that she was dend. that she was dead.

INCIDENTS OF THE FETES IN PARIS.

Paris, Oct. 25.-The Russian guests have gone, and with their departure a calm has fallen upon the Not the least surprising feature of the demonstrations here was that the population maintained their fervor for a week with no sign of becoming tired of the succession of gayeties or of giving expression ess noteworthy is the fact that throughout the whole period nothing occurred to emphasize the political aspect of the reception or to offend the Parisians are now seeking amusement in the incidents and sidelights of the festivities. One thing which causes laughter is the statement that Admiral Avelan, while here, received 19,000 letters Among them were 10,000 from women begging for an audience, a lock of the Admiral's hair or his autograph. It is stated that Aimiral Avelan in-tends to acknowledge the receipt of each of these letters, and that he will post the replies in a batch when the Russian fleet reaches the Piracus. At Clichy yesterday morning, while the train conveying the Russians to Versailles was crossing the Seine on the Asnieros railway bridge, a woman on the parallel bridge waved the French and Russian flags, shouting, "Les voir et mourir! Vive le Russie!" jumped into the river and was drowned. Russle!" jumped into the river and was drowned. The body, when recovered, was found to be dressed in a chemise made of Russian flags and a petticoat made of Russian and French flags.

President Carnot will start for Toulon at 4:30 p. m. to-morrow and arrive there at 8 o'clock Friday morning. He will be accompanied by Premier Dupuy, M. Develle, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Admiral Riemier, Minister of Marine, and Conte de Montebelle, Freuch Ambassador to Russia. Upon the President will so on board de Montebello, French Ambassador to Russia. Upon arriving at Toulon the President will go on board the French warship Formidable, where Admiral Avelan will pay his respects to him. Afterward the President will pay a return visit on board the Russian flagship. At noon breakfast will be served at the Maritime Prefecture. In the afternoon the new French manof-war Jaureguiberry will be launched in the presence of the President and his party and the Russian officers. In the evening all will attend a dinner. The President will return to Paris on Saturday morning.

A great number of floral emblems were sent to be placed on Gounod's grave, including offerings from the Countess of Paris and from musical societies in London, Milan, Brussels, Strasburg and Madrid,

THE RUSSIANS THANKS TO FRANCE. Paris, Oct. 25.—The following note was sent to the press this morning in behalf of the Russian

"Admiral Avelan and his officers have been deeply moved at the reception they have met in the capital. They offer to the Parislan populace a the capital. They offer to the Parisian populace a sincere expression of their gratitude. All they have seen and heard will remain forever engraven upon the depths of their hearts, and will be faithfully transmitted to France's friends in Russia. The Russian officers wished to respond to the numberless tokens of sympathy they received while in Paris. Time, however, has failed, and they now beg all Paris and the whole of France to accept their fraternal friendship and most sincere gratitude. They send forth to France all the best wishes of their hearts." best wishes of their hearts.

EXCITEMENT AT THE OPERA.

Paris, Oct. 25.-The most notable feature at the gala performance given last night at the Opera in honor of the Russian visitors was the ballet, which is said to have been the finest ever pro-duced in France. At the conclusion the performers, dressed in Russian costumes, passed before the curtain, and were received with frenzied plaudits by the spectators. One of them, who was dressed represent Ivan the Terrible, sang the Russian Anthem, and the whole house rose at him, cheering and crying, "Vive la Russie!" "Vive la Francaise!" and "Vive l'Alliance!" A cannot-shot from the rear of the stage ushered in the final scene, "The Apotheans of Peace." This evoked further enthusiastic cheering, and then the spectators joined in singing the "Marselliaise." Admiral Aveian was carried away with enthusiasm, and springing to list feet, faced the audience and shouted. "Vive la France!" It would be almost impossible to describe the scene which followed. The audience was absolutely delirious with patriotic enthusiasm, and it is doubtful if the Opera House or any other place of public entertainment had ever before witnessed such a scene of wild excitement. Between the acts Admiral Aveian and the other Russian officers visited the greenroom, where they received the most cordial attention.

THE CZARINA'S BEAUTIFUL DRESSES.

THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE MATABELES. A BATTLE EXPECTED TO-DAY-MOVEMENTS AND

INTENTIONS OF SIR HENRY LOCH. Johannesburg, Oct. 25.-It is expected that an engagement will take place between the white and native forces near the river to-morrow. Sir Henry Loch has given assurance that he only intends to assert his right to control the terms of peace which may be made with the Matabeles, and not to take charge of the field operations. Many rumors of all descriptions are in circulation here regarding the movements of the troops. One is that Major Lendy is dead, but all the reports lack confirmation. Cape Town, Oct. 25.—Sir Henry Loch, Governor of Cape Colony, who yesterday informed Cecil of Cape Town, Oct. 2s.—Sir Henry of Cape Town, Oct. 2s.—Sir Henry of Cape Colony, who yesterday informed Cecil Rhodes, Prime Minister and chairman of the British South Africa Company, that he intended to assume control of the operations against the Matabeles, arrived at Mafeking to-day. He will at once inspect 250 imperial troops who have been enrolled as Bechuanaland police, and who will immediately proceed to the front. Extensive arrangements are being made to harry forward met, stores and a telegraph plant. Prices of food and transportation have arisen enormously in consequence of the demands made by the Government.

In state of the official denial made in London yesterday that Sir Henry Loch was to assume sole charge of the operations against the Matabeles, it is believed here and in Johannesburg that instructions to that effect have been sent to Sir Henry by the Home Government. It is said that it would be absurd for Sir Henry to Interfere with the discretion of 1r. Jameson, administrator of the British South Africa Company, who is now in the field against the natives, when communication with the front may be cut off at any moment.

ALLEGED ATROCITIES BY THE BRITISH. London, Oct. 25.-An interview with a colonist named Davis, in reference to the Matabele raid at Fort Vic orla and alleged atrocities committed by the British, was recently published in "The Pre-toria Press," Davis is well known in Natal and the Congo Free State. He thus described the pursuit of the Matabeles from Fort Victoria:

"We overtook the impi seven miles from Victoria. They were going at a jog trot. Many were un-Covernor of Lyons, Archbishop Coullie was one of the guests.

They were going at a jog trot. Many were unmounted. Dr. Jameson immediately ordered us to mounted. Dr. Jameson immediately ordered us to fire. Our men were mad and shot down the Matabeles like rabbits, potting indiscriminately at the dead, the dying and the wounded. Twenty-five of the Matabeles were killed. Each body contained enough builets to kill a down. The Matabeles only builets to kill a down. The Matabeles only builets to kill a down. The Matabeles on other man, fired a return shot, and he was immediately brained. Another Matabele was brained with a gunstock, which was smashed by the blow. It was sickening work, yet on returning to Fort Victoria we were cheered as though we had won a second Waterloo.

The Charleted Company's officials in Cape Town refer to Davis's statements as the calumnious charges of a disappointed colonist. Sir Henry Loch is investigating the story.

Matabeles upon and used by those who are known to have received favors is not clear.

He got it because he put £20.00 of the State money into the bank, and a portion of this money was not put in until after the State Eark Examiner had found that the capital of the bank was impaired. But how ex-state Treasurer Lawrence J. Fitzgeraid, Judge Miles Beach, Edward S. Stokes and other Femorate obtained favors on the securities given by them is known only to the managers of the bank. The Madison Square Bank was convenient institution for the Democratic State Committee, and it was used by the members of it to a considerable extent. Some of the Firelas of Roswell P. with those who formerly believed that he was a man around whose head there was constantly a halo of light, the reflection of his superior goodness and virtue. The halo began to grow somewhat dimmer when, immediately after his inauguration Batavia, Ohio, Oct. 25 (Special),—"Last year I did not vote," said a Cincinnati manufacturer of mackintoshes to Governor McKinley to-day, "for I thought I was too busy and that it was not needed. This year I would go a hundred miles to vote for you, Governor. A year ago I employed a hundred people; this year but ten. The protection on my goods makes it possible for me to make them and compete with the cheaper-made goods of England, and the uncertainty as to tariff legislation by Congress prevents me from making the usual supply. If the tariff be reduced, Englishmade mackintoshes would be sold here below what made mackintoshes would be sold here below what that everything was not right with him. Ris was another act which tended to cause those who one-fourth what I can."

But his recent attempt to justify Maynard's theft by the little story of his dollar bill has sorely In Hillsboro' this afternoon Governor McKinley and General Alger were greeted by more than and scores of gray heads have been shaking deprecatingly since that story first was made public. As one elderly man who had been swearing by Flower for a generation or two said to the writer after reading the story: "Waal, I swan. I didn't think Ros. Flower would do a thing like that." The nomination of Maynard, and the Governor's justification of it, will aid the Republican ticket greatly. Nearly every lawyer in Jefferson County, unless, like Daniel G. Griffin, of this city, he is a partisan above anything and everything else, is dong his best to secure the defeat of the criminal judge. It is this quiet work which the lawyers generally are doing among members of their own profession, their clients and their associates generally, which will have its effect on election day, Nearly every lawyer who has a case which is likely to get to the Court of Appeals is afraid of MORE CHARACTERISTIC SHEEHAN METHODS Maynard, and this is having a wonderful effect with their clients, whose interests are most likely
